ARE YOUR EMPLOYEES BURNED OUT?

Employee burnout can spell trouble for your bottom-line

According to a study done in the UK, 48 per cent of respondents had reported increased individual workload against the backdrop of today's global recession. The study, conducted by the Institute of Personnel and Development (CIPD) and KPMG, also showed that stress levels had risen among workers who had survived the axe. Because of a leaner headcount, employees are expected to work harder and perhaps, even clock longer hours.
